15 Districts Okay Merger At Hamilton

School Consolidation Program Approved By Wide Margins

HAMILTON (Special) — The Hamilton school consolidation program affecting 15 school districts was approved decisively by votes of 4 to 1 and 3 to 1 in Monday's election in five polling centers.

All three issues, district consolidation, millage increase and bonded debt consolidation, passed with comfortable margins.

The district consolidation issue passed 1,078 to 231.

The millage increase passed 1,45 to 292.

The consolidation of bonded indebtedness (for property owners only) passed 917 to 312. Only in one polling place was there any deviation from the general pattern, and this was in the Sandy View (Overisel) polls where the debt issue trailed by four votes.

The consolidation vote automatically wiped out the separate board of the 15 districts.

As soon as the vote was made official, the Allegan County Board of Education appointed the following board to operate the newly enlarged district until the next election: John Kaper, Hamilton; Mrs. Cecile McNitt of the southwest corner of the new district; Raymond Busscher, Overisel; Jay Dykhuys, Fillmore, and William Beckford, Graafschap.

Shortly after appointment, the new board met and elected Kaper president; Mrs. McNitt, secretary; Busscher, treasurer, and Dykhuys and Beckford as trustees.

Since the next election is scheduled July 14, it also developed that today is the last day for filing petitions. Consequently, consolidation leaders scrambled about to circulate petitions to obtain 25 signatures for each of the new appointees.

Since the object of the whole consolidation program is to provide a new high school for Hamilton district, it is expected that the various committees will continue their work and submit recommendations on plans, bond issues, etc., in the near future.

Monday's election consolidating Hamilton districts has long been under consideration. As early as 1956 when Holland completed an area school study the report pointed out that Hamilton is a secondary hub of activity within the larger community area and suggested that Hamilton districts surrounding it study solutions to the problem.

The 15 school districts involved in the Allegan county vote are Elmwood, Colf, Valley View, Westview, McClair, Pioneer, Beeline, Sunnyside, Russell, Overisel (Sandy View), Beechwood (Overisel No. 3), Highland, Hamilton, Brookside and River Road.

Many Motorists Display Bad Habits at Accidents, Fires

Certain Holland area motorists have been getting into some pretty bad habits lately, according to Holland police, Ottawa County deputies and city and township firemen.

Some of these practices are outright illegal. Some are not expressly prohibited by law, but still pose a potential threat to others' lives and property.

There is, for example, the practice of chasing fire engines with a car. This is prohibited by both city ordinance and state law, which stipulate that a driver must not follow a fire engine closer than 500 feet or park in the same block which fire engines stop.

According to firemen and police, this law is all too often disregarded before police can arrive and

Boon Names Committees For New Jail

Holland's Municipal Judge Is Appointed To Citizens Group

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — Martin Boon, chairman of the Ottawa County Board of Supervisors, Wednesday afternoon appointed a seven-man committee of board members to study and proceed to provide a new jail for the county, after the board adopted a resolution calling for a complete study of the entire program with a view to constructing a new jail in 1959.

Boon appointed the following: Roy Lowing, chairman of the sheriff's committee; Case Szopinski and William L. Kennedy of the sheriff's committee, Dick Nieuw-sma of the buildings and grounds committee, Henry Slaughter of the ways and means committee, Gerritt Bottema of Spring Lake and Clarence Reenders of Grand Haven township.

Assisting this seven-man committee will be a citizens committee consisting of Hon. Cornelius vander Meulen, municipal judge of Holland; Hon. Frederick T. Miles, Ottawa County probate judge, and Henry Van Harn of Hudsonville.

The board discussed the jail situation in detail at its first meeting Monday afternoon when Lowing, chairman of the sheriff's committee, outlined problems confronting the county as the result of a threat of mandamus proceedings by W. H. Nestle, state jail inspector, too close the county jail because of inadequate facilities.

Although Monday's resolution refers specifically to the needs of a new county jail, it was understood that the over-all penal needs of the county would be studied, particularly with regard to a detention home and the like.

At a meeting of Nestle and the sheriff's committee June 10, it was generally agreed to plan a new jail to care for 50 or 60 prisoners, rather than a 100-prisoner capacity jail which would take care of the county for some years hence. A provision of state approval would be a provision that the new jail could be enlarged at a later date.

At the June 10 meeting, Nestle agreed to withhold court action pending outcome of the board's action at the June session.

ALLEGAN (Special) — Harvey Williams, 29, route 2, Gobles, is a police prisoner today in Allegan Health Center where he is being treated for a bullet wound in his right foot.

Williams was shot with a .32 caliber revolver by Howard Tal Barta, owner of Barta's resort at Bassline Lake as Williams fled in an attempted robbery, deputies said.

Barta told Deputy Robert Whitcomb that he was awakened about 3:30 or 3:45 a.m. today by sounds coming over the intercom system connected with his bedroom and near the cash register in the pavilion. At first Barta thought the noise was his dog, but when he heard the cash register ring, he got up and circled the pavilion.

He saw that the door was open and Williams stuffing money in his pockets. Barta ordered Williams to stop and then fired one shot into the air, then with his gun pointed towards the floor he shot again. That was when Williams was hit in the foot.

Williams fled by breaking a window. He was captured outside later by police. There was $49 in the till.

"If we needed a telephone instrument on the job, we managed to hang it around our necks — no other place to carry it, and coils of wire were usually hung on the handle bars," Hewitt said.

School Annexation Next Step

Van Raalte District Plans to Circulate Petitions to Annex

Plans for implementing school district annexation, now that political annexation has been effected in three areas, were discussed at a special meeting of the Board of Education Thursday night in E. E. Fell Junior High School.

The Apple Ave. district presents the fewest problems in that its whole district has been politically annexed. Maplewood district will go through the procedures of dis-annexing certain tag ends before school annexation can be effected. Since part of the Montello Park school district lies in Park township, future actions of the adjoining Lakeview district will be considered before school annexation procedures are begun.

Supt. Walter W. Scott read a letter from Van Raalte district, east of Holland, stating it plans to circulate petitions for political annexation in July with a view to voting Nov. 4.

Since the Van Raalte ninth graders have been accepted by Zeeland schools, the Van Raalte board asked when ninth graders could be transferred to Holland schools in event of a favorable vote. The answer was that ninth graders could transfer to Holland schools any time after annexation is effected.

Technically, the board revised a previous resolution extending its Sept. 1 deadline on accepting ninth graders in event of annexation. Van Raalte's communication revealed that the whole district will

Hope Students Prepare for Summer School Aboard Ship

Thirty students enrolled in the Hope College Summer School Program received their first introduction to the European study - tour experience during their eight-day crossing on the Q. S. S. Arkadia. Good food, sunbathing, swimming, and walks around the deck provided pleasant interruptions between the carefully arranged program of information on the economic, cultural and political situation in the European countries the students planned to visit. Classes in beginning German conversation, taught by Mrs. W. Curtis Snow of the Hope College German department, were held daily to help acquaint the tour members with their new tongue.

Tour members also learned the songs of Germany and Austria as they gathered for group fellowship each evening after dinner aboard ship. The entire group performed for the ship's amateur program as they concluded the program with Auf Wiedersehen and two other traditional German numbers. The group members also brushed up on American folk songs to sing for their European friends.

Landing in Cherbourg, France, the tour went to Bayeux, France, a quaint provincial town in the Normandy section of France. Bayeux is famous because it is the area from which William the Conqueror left for England in 1066 and it is also the first town to be liberated by the invading American armies in 1944.

A visit to the Normandy beach-heads, the invasion museum, and the Normandy American military cemetery brought the group face to face with the fact that American interest in Europe involves more than pleasure travel.

In sharp contrast to the Normandy war scenes were the peaceful Romanesque churches and abbies dating back to the 11th century and the unique Bayeux tapestry woven in the 11th century by the ladies of Queen Mathilda's court. The tapestry depicts scenes of the Norman conquest of England.

Off for Paris the next day, the tour bus stopped at a delightful country inn for a delicious home-cooked French meal. The students were surprised by the French leisure and care in preparation of the meals, but they quickly adjusted to the new experience of spending two hours over lunch.

In addition to the regular sight seeing, tour group members found time to include a number of activities specifically planned to integrate the travel program with the academic program scheduled for Vienna. But, there was also time for a varied cultural fare including a splendid performance of Verdi's La Traviata given in the famous Paris Opera House.

Dr. Paul Fried of the college faculty is director of the program, assisted by Mrs. W. Curtis Snow as women's counselor. Also with the group are Dr. Morrette Rider of the music department and Mrs. Rider.

Zeeland

Dr. Andrew V. Karsten was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Zeeland Rotary Club held last Tuesday noon at Bosch's Restaurant. Dr. Karsten is professor of the department of Chemical Engineering at the State College of Mining and Engineering at Rapid City, South Dakota. Club members decided to hold all of their summer meetings, beginning with the second week in July at the American Legion Country Club.

Tom Plewes left last week for Camp Shawonidosee near Whitehall Scout Camp for the summer. He is head of the Camp Kraft Division.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen De Pree and son, Paul, who spent a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adrian De Pree, have returned to Camp Alabama.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Boonstra and Mrs. Nelson Boonstra of St. Joseph are spending this week at Kewadin with Mr. and Mrs. Chester Van Lo.

Mrs. Carrie Alma of Toronto, Canada, is the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Isaac Van Dyke, for two weeks.

Volleyballs

Tulip Time was hardly over before Harold J. Karsten, director of the band review, received his first application from a band to participate in next year's parade of bands. The request came from Hartford High School band which has never been in Tulip Time parades. Karsten, who received the communication the Monday after Tulip Time, acknowledged it and said he would place the band on the mailing list.

Karsten got one more good plug for his untiring efforts for Tulip Time's Band day — this time from his 6 1/2-year-old grandson.

Mrs. Karsten had taken the grandchildren to the band review and then to Eighth St. for the parade. They stopped near a family which evidently had been waiting a long time. The man said, "I sure wish this parade would start."

Mrs. Karsten said, "It will start at 4 o'clock . . . in 10 minutes."

The man looked skeptically and replied, "You HOPE?"

Up spoke young Scott who was in Holland for his first Tulip Time. "This is my grandfather's parade and it will start on time." It did, of course.

A record of 38 years of continuous service on a school board should have some kind of public recognition . . . even though this particular public servant is modest.

So . . . an extra volley from our ambush cannon to Fred Bocks who is retiring this year after 38 years on the Beechwood school board. During this long period he has missed only two board meetings. Besides that, he's been active in civic and church affairs and has served on the township board.

When Fred started on the school board, Beechwood school had only three teachers. One of the first matters the board had to consider was a request from a teacher who felt the month's pay should be $65 instead of $62.

H. Roe Bartle, the mayor from Kansas City, Mo., made a tremendous hit as commencement speaker for the Holland High senior class early in June.

One person who particularly enjoyed his address was Mrs. H. Herbert Holt, wife of the city manager who remembered him as commencement speaker for her high school class 15 years ago in Kansas City.

When she mentioned this at the reception which followed, Mayor Bartle reached into his pocket and presented her with a colorful "key to the city" which he usually gives to distinguished guests.

Later in the evening after Bartle had gone to the hotel, he decided he wanted a bowl of soup at a local restaurant. Since graduates were roaming the town it wasn't long before a group spotted him and gathered around and talked and talked and talked.

He dutifully autographed all their commencement programs. One chap didn't have a program with him so asked for an autograph on a paper napkin. Mayor Bartle obliged, but the chap complained, "You didn't write 'mayor of Kansas City.'" Whereupon Roe Bartle gave him a key to the city.

Mike Van Hekken, who has been a heart patient in Holland hospital for about six weeks, met a brand new challenge while eating supper Thursday night.

"Did you ever try to eat spaghetti lying in bed with your head at a 30-degree angle?" he asked.

It was raining hard early last week and Sentinel Sports Editor Randy Vande Water hurriedly borrowed a raincoat from the coat rack, hoping that the owner wouldn't be needing it at that time.

It rained on different occasions the next few days, but Randy refrained from borrowing the coat again. The owner might be needing it.

At week's end, he took a good look at the raincoat. It was his own.

Note attached to a social item submitted here this week: "Use as much, as little, or none, if you want to of the attached."

Thanks! We make our own decisions anyway, but it's nice to be granted a lot of latitude.

HOLLAND'S GROWING PAINS

The people of Holland may not yet realize the fact, but this city is in a bout of growing pains. With the addition of the new areas, making the city three times as large as it was in territory, Holland is facing a period of expansion not only in territory but in services and equipment and personnel.

Holland is in the position of the lusty young boy whose arms and legs and torso increase almost visibly overnight. His trousers legs climb up above his ankles, his coat sleeves no longer meet his hands, his shirt bursts at the seams. And that enlargement is usually accompanied by physical "growing pains" and sometimes mental fumbings that are uncomfortable while they last but that are normal and in the way of nature.

At the moment Holland's clothes, in the way of territory, are much too large. The city will have to grow into them. As in the case of the lusty boy, that will mean many discomforts and perhaps mental fumbings in political problems. It will be somewhat difficult for the people of Holland, the voters who are Holland's political voters up until now, to think of their city in terms of the expanded area and population. And in the same way, it may be somewhat difficult for the people of the added areas to develop the feel of being "city people" in the same sense in which the residents along the familiar city streets are such.

With goodwill on both sides, that feeling of being in the same political boat can in time be developed. But there are other growing pains that are more physical in nature.

There are the services that will have to be supplied to the new citizens of the city of Holland as soon as practicable. How real such growing pains are will be evidenced by anybody who has ever gone through the process of having streets paved along his property, or sidewalks built, or gas and light and water mains and sewers supplied.

It may be taken for granted that the personnel of the city government will have plenty of headaches in connection with those growing pains during the years immediately ahead. The big pain, of course, was that of education, and that too will call for wise planning. While the main issue has been decided, it still has to be implemented, and that will involve problems that are as yet only dimly seen.

But with goodwill on both sides, these growing pains are not a cause for serious worry. They are normal, and if they are met with careful consideration they will help Holland to grow into the physical maturity into which the lusty boy finally grows who goes through the same process.

There is work to be done. Everyone can have a part.

A Spokesman for God
1 Samuel 3:10-20
by C. P. Dame
(Based on copyrighted outlines produced by the Division of Christian Education, National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. and used by permission.)

Some people make a success of life and others fail sadly. Not all church workers set a high example. In times past people in positions of leadership in the Lord's work failed and some succeeded.

I. God calls young people. When Samuel was young God came to him with a message. Samuel had a wonderful mother who promised him to the Lord and she kept her promise and brought him to the tabernacle to minister there. One night God spoke to Samuel and told him about something that would happen in Israel. God had something to say to Samuel who was ready to listen. Conditions were not pleasing to God in the church of that day and that is why God spoke to Samuel. The people in charge of the religious work in Israel were not measuring up to their high calling. When the regular workers in the church fail God often turns to others to carry on. History shows that God has done this a number of times. Eli the priest neglected his duty, his two sons dishonored their positions, and hence God needed some one else and that is why he called Samuel who became the religious leader in Israel.

II. Parents are responsible for their children. Eli was a weak leader, and father. The church has suffered much and many times from weak leadership. The two sons of Eli were priests who were guilty of two sins — greed and immorality. Their greed was so great that they resorted to force and made threats in order to get more of the sacrifices than was due them. In addition, these priests were guilty of immorality. Greed and sexual sins have made some religious leaders useless.

Eli knew of the sinful conduct of his sons but he did not remove them from office and hence he was at least in part responsible for the misbehavior of his sons who were religious leaders. Naturally when leaders unfit themselves for religious service the whole nation suffers. It is a high responsibility to hold some office in the church. The sons were not qualified to hold office and the father who had a twofold relationship towards his sons—he was over them as priest and as father—failed to function. Eli was a weakling in his home life and in the church of that day.

Today there are far too many weak parents. When children do wrong parents are often to blame and they may become accessory to the sins of their children. The term "guilty by association" fits some parents who do not discipline their sons and daughters but let them have their own way. God held Eli responsible for the waywardness of his sons and God also holds modern parents responsible for the wrongdoings of their children. Indulgent parents and grandparents weaken the family, hurt the church and the nation.

III. God rejects faithless workers and calls others. Eli and his family had received a trust from God and they had failed. God brushed them aside and called another. If a family proves faithless to him, or a congregation fails, or a denomination loses its vision God will choose others. God is determined to have his work done. There is one fact stated about Samuel which reveals something of his character. Note the words, "And Samuel grew" — and those words show what kind of workers God uses. As Samuel grew the nation recognized his ability and consecration. When a person stops growing he ceases to be useful. Growing Christians increase in usefulness and in favor with God and man.

Powerful Drama At Barn Theater

Playing this week at the Red Barn Theater near Saugatuck is the hard-hitting human drama, "Hatful of Rain," by Michael V. Gazzo, which tells the story of a family caught in a web of deceit and corruption resulting from drug addiction.

Producer-Director James Dyas' production of the poignant drama is extremely well cast as is the general rule of any Dyas production. Starring are William Cain and Dorothy Lee Tompkins, both veterans of the Red Barn, and Jack Doner who comes here from Los Angeles via two years in New York.

Cain is cast as Johnny Pope, the young husband addicted to dope, and Doner as Polo Pope, the brother who is the only one aware of Johnny's predicament and the only one helping him, yet his aid is always in question. Miss Tompkins appears as Johnny's gentle wife.

The hard-hitting play is full of action, with some of the best scenes between the robust Polo and the mixed-up brother, Harry Peckham appears as the boys' father, sometimes critical and mostly helpless.

Threats and further intrigue in the plot are furnished by three questionable characters, played by Gary Anderson, Keith De Long and J. J. Sullivan, and by a fourth companion, Peggy Pearson.

"Hatful of Rain" is a thought provoking play based on a great problem. For good drama, the theater lover will be impressed. For entertainment only, wait for a comedy.

The play continues through Saturday. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

Police Seek Suspects In Robbery

Search Widens for Two Men Who Attempted Holdup in Grand Haven

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — Law enforcement officers all over Michigan continued their search Saturday for two would-be robbers who terrorized a 74-year-old Grand Haven man Friday afternoon, resulting in his death.

Daniel J. James, of 617 Columbus St., collapsed and died of a heart attack shortly after two unidentified men entered his home and demanded $5,000. His 70-year-old wife, only other witness to the attempted robbery, was treated in Municipal Hospital for shock.

According to Mrs. James, two men knocked on the James front door about 12:10 p.m. and asked to see her husband. She said he was in and asked if they knew him.

They said, "We will know him," as they walked by her into the house and into the kitchen where James was sitting at the table. "We want $5,000," one man said, and then gouged James in the face with his fist and pushed him back into his chair.

"Be careful, I've got heart trouble," James said, and one of the men said, "You're going to have worse than heart trouble when we get finished with you."

Mrs. James pleaded with the men to let her husband sit down and as James started for the living room as if to sit down, she ran to the front door and screamed, "Help, we're being robbed." In the confusion the two robbers fled on foot, one through the back door and north on the railroad tracks and the other out the front door and down Columbus St. to Seventh.

As the two robbers fled, Gerald Stevens, a salesman driving by in a pickup truck, noticed the confusion and asked the man who had left by the front door what had happened. The man said, "It's just a family quarrel," and Stevens drove on.

James left the house by the front door and went across the street to the home of a brother-in-law, John Chapman, mumbled something about being in trouble. Chapman rushed to the James home, and as James followed he collapsed on the Chapman lawn.

Neighbors carried James to his own home and called police and an ambulance. Officers Ray Mieras and Delbie De Gram were first on the scene and tried to question James as he walked about, gasping. Then he collapsed again and was taken to Municipal Hospital where he was dead on arrival. Mrs. James told police neither

This all happened early Friday evening when Cleo Cooper, who is in charge of the plantings, in the downtown mall reported to city police that three rose bushes had been removed from the planting in front of his store.

An officer on reading the memo in the police station recalled he had seen a local merchant carrying three rose bushes to his car at 2:30 a.m. that day. A check at the man's home revealed three rose bushes ready for planting. The bushes are now on display in the window of the police department.

WARM FRIEND TAVERN

Geerlings, Van Peursem Visit Board

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — State Sen. Clyde H. Geerlings of Holland and State Rep. George M. Van Peursem of Zeeland, speaker of the House of Representatives, were guests at a meeting of the Ottawa County Board of Supervisors Wednesday afternoon.

Geerlings told supervisors that the No. 1 problem in legislature will not be taxes—it's going to be schools. He said when he entered the Senate some years ago the state aid amounted to $50,000,000 a year, whereas today it is $241,000,000 with prospects of doubling in five years unless a good program is carefully worked out.

He talked at length on deductible mileage which figures in the formula for school aid. He said cities object to a high deductible mileage because much of the rural property in the state is inadequately assessed. To meet the needs of a balanced program, Geerlings said a "package program" would have to be worked out. He praised Ottawa county for being the first county in Michigan to work out a uniform assessment program under a Clemenishaw study.

Van Peursem said he and Geerlings were particularly proud of the Ottawa Board of Supervisors because it does not bombard its representatives with resolutions and requests, and he felt Ottawa county was the easiest county in the state's 83 counties to represent in Lansing. He urged close cooperation in all issues since it is hard to make the right decisions if only one side is presented to the lawmakers. He also urged that constituents be consistent since the only way to provide more money is to levy more taxes.

In other business, William L. Kennedy, chairman of the Civil Defense committee, reported that Ottawa county has about $1,100 coming back in matching funds for Civil Defense equipment.

Eight Holland Students Get Degrees at U of M

US-31, M-21 Will Get Overpass

Traffic Will Move Over M-21; Interchange Also In Planning Stage

LANSING (Special) — Bids will be taken July 23 by the state highway department on a bridge which will carry the US-31 expressway over M-21, just east of Holland, Commissioner John C. Mackie said Friday.

Mackie said the project will also include a dual pavement of US-31 for a seven-tenths mile section between the junction of the highway with M-21 and the Black River.

Plans call for the existing highway to the bridge, including the one-way roads leading to the present US-31 highway, to be torn up. This must be done to complete the dual pavement. Mackie referred to this section as a bottleneck between two sections of four-lane divided highway.

The exact type of interchange design has not been determined, Mackie reported, but it will be set up for motorists to enter and leave the highways.

When the bridge is completed, traffic will move on US-31, over M-21. The present traffic light will be eliminated.

The commissioner said the work, including the bridge and the pavement, is scheduled to be completed by Aug. 15, 1959.
